

Annex 12.5. Daily variation in plasma melatonin concentrations in the goose.

The dark bar represents the obscurity period (from 12 to 24 hours), with increased levels of melatonin, while the white bar represents the periods when artificial light was provided, with a consequent decrease in the melatonin levels (adapted from Zawilska et al., 2003).

